We are pleased to announce the 9th Annual Expressive Therapies Summit to be held in New York City, October 11-14, 2018. Last year, approximately 900 creative arts therapists and educators, counselors and social workers, play therapists, and healthcare colleagues gathered together to learn, collaborate, and network.

Click here to access the 2018 Proposal Submission Site or paste this URL into your browser < <http://www.cvent.com/d/5tqws9> >. The site contains all the information you'll need to know about submitting a proposal. Once there, use the Click to Submit tab to get to the online submission form.

We welcome papers, panels, workshops, as well as single- and multi-day classes featuring any of the creative arts therapies. We are especially interested in sessions that are multimodal, interdisciplinary, and/or experiential.

We are also inviting proposals for day-long multi-faculty seminars. Single-discipline presentations are also welcome, particularly those with an emphasis on studio skills, therapeutic techniques, and topics of clinical interest. Proposals on essential skills in the practice of counseling and psychotherapy are welcome, as well.

The 2018 Summit program will be selected from proposals submitted via our online application form, accessible now through 11:59 pm ET, on Sunday, March 18. Please don't procrastinate; we're opening the call two months earlier this year, since we do not intend to extend the deadline any further. Proposal submission is open to all mental health professionals, and is not limited by theme.

Notification of the committee's decisions will be sent via email at the end of June. The full Summit schedule, continuing education details, and registration will be available online in late July.
